Jakarta, Indonesia

I am a final-semester Information Technology student with a strong interest in digital product development, especially in the field of UI/UX design and front-end website developer. With solid communication and interpersonal skills, I am capable of collaborating effectively in teams or working independently. I am proficient in tools such as Figma and Visual Studio Code, which I use to create functional and visually appealing interfaces. Eager to keep learning and growing, I am ready to contribute fresh ideas and efficient design approaches to support user-focused digital solutions in the accommodation industry as an Accommodation Chain Intern.
